THIRD STRAIGHT VICTORY

Bo Lamar And Dean Wagner Star
In Contest Witnessed By Large Student Body

Out of the air, through the line, and around the ends went the Hatchettes to victory. Using steam-roller tactics that completely swamped the feeble opposition, George Washington piled up a 41 to 0 score against the red-jerseyed gridmen from St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, last Saturday at Central Stadium.

With Loehler on the sidelines because of an injured shoulder, Bo Lamar and Dean Wagner became the center of attention. Lamar proved an able field general at all times, and displayed particular fleetness of foot on end runs. Dean Wagner found great holes in the line, and seemed to be able to gain at will. Goldman played a stellar game at guard, recovering a fumble that led to the second score. Bowen and McNeil were often found on the receiving end of a long pass from Lamar. Kris displayed his excellent line ability when he went in and stopped St. Joe's only threat at goal. Resh, Clements, Laux, Malone and the McLain twins played an exceptional game. For St. Joe, Deneen and Martinez were best ground gainers.

A record crowd packed the entire north side of the Central Stadium. "Pep" Balter was on hand as usual and his cheering section displayed plenty of life. Between the halves the students paraded in their weekly snake-dance. The band from the Army Musical School, led by Manuel Commulada, a student at George Washington, was again on hand, and furnished excellent music.

Forward passes played a big part in George Washington's victory, the Buff and Blue completing 8 out of 14 tries for a total of approximately 200 yards. Of the nine passes tried by the Crimson, but three were completed, while three others found their way into the hands of G. W. players.

George Washington won the toss and elected to receive, defending the west goal. Murphy kicked off over the Hatchet goal for the Philadelphians, and the game was on. Faking a punt, Dean Wagner raced off guard for 9 yards. Laux made it first down through left tackle. Long punted on the next play, and the Crimson runner was downed on his own 45-yard line. Goldman broke through on the first play and threw the Crimson back for a 5-yard loss.

Oakes then tried a long left end run that netted him but 4 yards.

LAW JUNIORS ELECT AFTER CLOSE CONTEST

A near-contest was the result of the Junior Class election in Law School last Tuesday. Douglas Beattie, one of the contestants for president, withdrew just before the election, leaving the field open to Ernest L. Wilkinson and Sterry R. Waterman. Wilkinson won the presidency on a vote that could almost have been considered a tie, having received 60 votes while 58 were cast for his opponent, one for Beattie, and one voter failed to indicate his choice for president, although marking other officers.

Tom Mount, opposing Mildred Thrasher, won the vice-presidency by a narrow margin. Francis W. Brown was the choice for treasurer of the class, while Faye Woodward and Thomas F. Stewart were elected secretary and sergeant-at-arms, respectively.

Debating Trio From Cambridge Win Classic Contest From G. W.

Wit And Good-natured Sarcasm Of Englishmen Baffle Their Opponents And Amuse A Packed Auditorium

Outclassed in presentation, and routed from a strong position by a continual bombardment of sarcasm and witticisms, the George Washington debating team added one more victory to the record of the Cambridge trio now touring America, when they lost the decision of the audience last Monday evening, by a vote of 683 to 442.

The Cambridge team, composed of A. P. Marshall, Richard A. Butler and Gerald Sparrow, presented a class of debate seldom seen in college circles. Through a process of ridicule, a clever satirizing of the George Washington arguments, with an undercurrent of serious thought, the Cambridge men completely baffled their slower opponents, and carried the audience with them through the intricacies of modern democracy.

James O. Cade, Joseph Levinson and Oscar Zabel, representing George Washington University, presented a solid group of arguments in a sober fashion, entirely lacking the easy grace of repartee that characterized the speeches of all three Englishmen.

Opening the debate on the side of Cambridge, A. P. Marshall immediately caught the attention of his hearers, and never during the Cambridge speeches was that attention lost. "Personal liberty," he said, "depends, first, upon security and, second, upon self-mastery, and modern democracy gives us neither." He then went on to explain his stand, enlarging upon the power of the press over the opinions of the uneducated who in turn have the fate of the nation in their hands. "Then, too," he went on, "men born to conditions brought about by modern democracy defeat their own ends of personal liberty." In support of this point he cited cases of child labor which is tolerated in both England and America.

James O. Cade, the first speaker of the negative, traced the growth of democracy through the ages from the ancient kingdoms of the period before Christ to the present and connected this growth with the corresponding growth of the personal liberty of man.

That the intelligence and capability of modern democratic peoples is being impaired by the increasing domination of mechanical inventions was one of the points made by Butler, who spoke second for the affirmative. He stressed the idea that a democratic form of government as practiced in England and America encouraged to a too great extent the labor-saving and mind-extending devices. He also denounced the party system of government, which is the very antithesis of true democracy, and humorously added that politics "were not being done by the best people" and that consequently the government was in the hands of political bosses.

Levinson followed Cade with a definition of the term "personal liberty," and went on to point out the difference between liberty and license. He claimed that most of the so-called liberties which the Englishmen cited as being denied us were not liberties but forms of license, since they interfered with the rights of others.

Gerald Sparrow took the floor last for the English team. Tall, red haired, rather unprepossessing in appearance, he became the admitted star of the debate. His natural cleverness, biting sarcasm and wit, that carried all before it, added the final note to the already strong case of his team. He argued that the people do not govern in a democracy, spoke of the

NEW BUILDING GIVEN BENEFACCTOR'S NAME

W. W. Corcoran Served On Board of Trustees Thirty-three Years

ESTABLISHED ENDOWMENT

Made Many Contributions Toward Early Financial Support of University

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees of George Washington University held last summer, it was unanimously voted to give the name Corcoran Hall to the first unit of the new building system of the University. This makes effective a resolution adopted by the Board in 1903 when it was planned to erect buildings on the Van Ness site, now occupied by the Pan-American Union. The same day that site was purchased the Trustees voted to name one of the buildings Corcoran Hall. The sale of the property to the government delayed the carrying out of the plan more than twenty years.

The University holds in grateful memory the name of W. W. Corcoran. He served it actively and efficiently as a member of the Board of Trustees from 1869 until his death in 1888, and was President of the Board during the entire period of his membership.

He was one of the greatest benefactors the University has had. In 1865 he presented it with a building on H street, valued at $30,000, for the use of the Medical School. Additional ground was later purchased and the present Medical School and Hospital buildings were erected.

In 1873 Corcoran promised the gift of the Trinidad farm, which was transferred to the University two years later. At a later date, and with his approval, this property was sold for $85,000, and the proceeds formed part of the Corcoran Endowment Fund. In 1883 he gave $30,000 toward the construction of the building erected at Fifteenth and H Streets, the present sites of the Woodward building, which was occupied by the University for twenty-five years. In 1886 he gave an additional sum of $25,000, which was added to the Corcoran Endowment Fund.

This great benefactor of the University was deeply interested in the development of the University, and was especially solicitous that it should be in the heart of the city, so located that it could most efficiently serve the youth of the city who were unable to give their entire time to college work. It was largely as a result of his far-seeing advice that classes were established at hours convenient for students employed in government service, which is true of nearly 80 percent of the present student body.

MANY NEW MEMBERS OUT FOR GLEE CLUB

Director Robert Harman in a lively meeting started the Men's Glee Club on its work for the coming season at Corcoran Hall last Thursday night. The new director also spoke to the men for a short time, assuring them of his sincere cooperation.

The club was drilled on several numbers by the new director. Then the new men had their voices tried. It was agreed that the next meeting would be in Corcoran Hall, Thursday night, at 7 p. m., just after classes. Thereby, the rehearsal lasting only an hour, the rest of the evening will be free.

There were several men present, and what is more gratifying, quite a few new faces. The Glee Club is an organization in which all are on the same footing, new and old alike, and any man who wants to join can be sure of a glad welcome.

Degrees To Be Conferred Upon Eighty At Formal Dedication Of New Building

Formal dedication of Corcoran Hall will be the feature of the Fall Convocation ceremonies this evening in the assembly room of that building at which degrees will be conferred upon eighty students. Instead of a regular convocation speech as usual, the Convocation will be held in connection with the dedication ceremonies, at which the President and faculties will formally receive from the Board of Trustees the first great unit of the new University quadrangle.

Thirty students will receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws, 20 will receive a Bachelor of Arts degree from Columbian College, degrees will be conferred upon 11 others by the School of Graduate Studies, diplomas will be granted 11 from Teachers' College, 2 will receive the Doctor of Medicine degree, while Engineering College grants a degree to 1.

In addition to the student body, invitations have been sent to over 5,000 friends and alumni members of the University, including all who have subscribed to the Building and Endowment Fund. Descendants and members of the family of W. W. Corcoran, for whom the building has been named, will be present as guests of honor at the dedication ceremonies.

Rev. George M. Diffenderfer, of the Luther Place Memorial Church, will deliver the invocation and benediction. John B. Lerner, chairman of the Board of Trustees of George Washington University, will make an address of presentation, and Dr. William Mather Lewis, President of the University, will accept the new building on behalf of the faculties and student body with a fitting address.

Following convocation and dedication ceremonies a reception will be given by the President, trustees and faculties in honor of the formal dedication of Corcoran Hall.

Corcoran Hall is being decorated for the reception, and various rooms will be used for display and other purposes. The paintings collected by W. W. Corcoran are being hung in the hall, where they will remain permanently. One room will be devoted to student activities displays, containing pictures of athletic and debating teams, prizes and trophies won by various University teams, and such other articles as may create an interest in student activities.

Another room will be devoted to a display by the Psychological Department and will contain, among other things, the apparatus constructed by the department which has been used so extensively in automobile drivers' examinations. In another room will be hung pictures from the Architect Department. Here will be found the pictures, plates and drawings comprising the Sturgis gift recently acquired by the University.

Most of the equipment procured for the Chemical Laboratories has arrived and is being installed in the laboratory rooms on the fourth floor. With the installation of this new equipment George Washington University will undoubtedly have the finest chemical laboratory to be found in any university in America. The equipment is all the best that could be secured, modern in every detail, and much of it has never been tried or used in any other educational institution in the country.

One room on Corcoran Hall has been turned over to the young ladies of the University, who will serve refreshments during the evening while the new building is being inspected by the guests.

President To Speak

President Lewis leaves tomorrow for New York, where he will spend the remainder of the week working in connection with the Building and Endowment Campaign.

SENIORS TO MEET

The Senior Class of Columbian College will meet Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Room 17, Corcoran Hall.

BALTIMORE OR "BUST"

One more good reason why we should go to Baltimore: When a George Washington football team, with the captain and star players on the sidelines, can win a game from another college 41 to 0, it not only deserves the support of every student in the University but can meet a team of the caliber of the Johns Hopkins aggregation and bring results which will be a credit to the University.

The ever-increasing attendance at the home games has created a new interest in football in George Washington. If half of the more than 2,000 students who witnessed the defeat of St. Joseph's last Saturday make the trip to Baltimore people will become alive to the qualities of the real George Washington. The appearance of such a crowd of supporters would in itself create consternation among the Blue Jay squad.

Special arrangements are being made to provide transportation for all students who wish to attend the Baltimore game. It will be possible to leave Washington as soon as classes are out Saturday afternoon and arrive at Homewood Stadium in time for the game. This is probably the only opportunity George Washington students will have to attend an out-of-town game in a body, and everyone who can should avail himself of this opportunity. See "Pep" Balter at once!

CORCORAN HALL

Corcoran Hall is ours! It is the pride of the faculty and student body, and the beginning of the greatest university in the country. Within the past hundred years the school has many times shifted its location; it has many times changed leaders; it has been the recipient of many gifts from philanthropists and educators; steadily growing to assume a position of greater importance and prominence in the life of the city.

Out of this growth has come the foundation of a University which will continue to grow much more rapidly and under much more favorable circumstances. Within another year a second great building, to be occupied by the Law School, will be added to the system. One after another these buildings will be constructed until the block is enclosed in one great triangle which will provide facilities and equipment for thousands of students.

Following the custom of many other institutions, the new building is being named in honor of one of the greatest benefactors of the University. Later buildings will be named in honor of others who have made possible the continued growth of the institution. From the example set by these others we learn to cherish the name of our University above all others and give to it our wholehearted support, which it truly deserves.

GIRLS SEE ACTIVE SEASON AT BASKET BALL MEETING

Mary Bixler Chosen For Second Time To Lead Team—Several Stars Available

Mary Bixler, president of the Senior Class in Teachers' College, was elected captain of the girls' basketball team at a meeting held last Thursday evening at the home of Manager Alice Haines. This is her fourth year of this sport and the second time she has been picked by her teammates as their leader.

It was an informal affair that was attended by members of last year's team and their coach, Miss Imogene Spockett. Fruit and nuts were served. Past victories and defeats, and the splendid prospects for the ensuing season, furnished the main topics for conversation.

Over 150 girls signified their interest in basketball by checking that activity on their enrollment papers. Several of them have been stars at other institutions. This unusual interest has caused plans to be made for inter-sorority contests, winner of which will probably receive a handsome silver cup. These contests will start in November and are expected to develop some fine material for the varsity squad.

Varsity practice will start about the first of December. Miss Mary Jackson, Director of Physical Education for Women, has been appointed coach. With such an able instructor great things will be expected of the team.

Schedules are now being arranged. In addition to the home games, two trips are planned; one to schools north of Washington and the other to those to the south.

Managers of the men's and women's teams are working together on their schedules. They plan to have nearly all of the home games double headers. This will insure a large attendance, for lovers of basketball will thus be given an opportunity to see both of the varsity teams in action on the same night.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The Charles C. Swisher Historical Society held its first meeting of the year last Tuesday evening. The president, after appointing a new program committee, called for the election of officers. Dominic L. Pucci was elected president, Margaret A. Klein, vice-president; Ora Marchino, secretary, and Clarence Q. Graham, sergeant-at-arms.

Elections were followed by an illustrated lecture by Dr. Swisher. Hand-colored slides, secured by Dr. Swisher on his recent trip to that country, were shown, depicting the most beautiful scenes to be found in Switzerland. They were thrown on the screen and discussed in a style that has endeared our dean of history teachers to all the students who have been so fortunate as to come in contact with him.

CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST WON BY S. P. E. NINE

Slow Game With Many Errors Shows Lack Of Practice In Deciding Game

Football, present king of sports, had his throne menaced last Sunday morning by the deposed king, baseball, when the Sigma Phi Epsilon nine won the interfraternity cup from the Kappa Sigma team by a 6-0 score on the Monument grounds.

These two teams were winners in their respective leagues during the spring interfraternity games, and a chance to play off the tie was never given them because of too many other affairs at the close of the school year. The winners take as their trophy a beautiful silver cup.

Sigma Phi Epsilon showed a decided superiority over the Kappa Sigs and deserved to win if the respective playing of the two teams Sunday means anything. Johnson, the winning pitcher, struck out eleven men in seven innings and his play was easily the feature of the combat. However, Goodell, for the losers, did not pitch a bad game, but had ragged support on almost every play, each team making a flock of errors, accounted for by the fact that neither team had had any practice since last spring.

The champions got a total of six hits, several being doubtful, and several being of the scratch variety. Kappa Sigma got just half that number, one being a clean single by Johnson and the others scratches.

In the third Johnson singled with none out, went to the midway station on Bonebrakes' field, after Nolls had flied out. Creswell flied to Corbin to end the inning. Again in the sixth Nolls walked and stole second. Goodell hit a long single to left-center field and Nolls, thinking the run safe, was caught at the plate by Corbin's perfect peg home for the last out. Several other chances were allowed to go their way without being disturbed.

The S. P. E. started off in the first inning with two runs, enough to have won, but being dissatisfied they added two more in the third, one in the fifth and one in the sixth. Baxter Smith, lead-off man, was hit in the back, taking his base; Johnson drew a base on balls. Butler fanned and the runners moved up a notch when the catcher dropped the ball, leaving the bases loaded. Corbin up, singled and Smith and Johnson crossed the pan. Errors in base running, an attempted steal of home, and a strike-out ended the inning. Again in the third Law singled, went to second on an error at first base, stole third and went home on an error by Houghton. Willey walked, stole second and third and scored on another error by Houghton. Curlin was in a position to score but was caught off third for the final out.

The game was slow and full of errors, but at the same time an interesting one. The opposing fraternities razed each other often and kept things lively. Score by innings:

K. S. .... 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0

thralldom of the minority, and the undoubted power of the money magnates. One remark of his brought the greatest response of the evening: "The people do not govern in a democracy—they are allowed to place a cross beside the name of the least repulsive candidate."

The debate was ended by Oscar Zabel, who showed the inconsistency of definitions of the terms of the debate and the elasticity of the possibilities of their interpretation. He then gave the usual view of the terms and appealed to the common sense of the audience to also take them in that way.

The debate was judged by a gathering of the best of the intellectual circle of Washington. The Continental Memorial Hall held many of Washington's most prominent and respected citizens. President William Mather Lewis of George Washington University, presiding, welcomed the English team to Washington.

LAW SCHOOL SENATE PLAN HOLIDAY DANCE

At a meeting of the Law School Senate last Thursday, Teresa V. Haley, representative of the second year's class, was elected vice-president of the Senate. Marion E. Schwartz, also from the second year class, was elected secretary-treasurer, and the election of Hubert H. Mitchell at a former meeting as president was affirmed.

The Senate also seated Professor Gilbert L. Hall as an alumni representative and Dean William C. Van Vleck as faculty representative.

A committee consisting of James A. Cochran, chairman, and D. Cameron Disney, Clyde Tolson and Dean Van Vleck, was appointed to complete preparations for a Law School dance, which will be given by the Senate some time during the Thanksgiving period.

BASKETBALLS PRESENTED TO TEN ON GIRLS' TEAM

Women's G. W. Club Elects Officers And Plans Support Of Girls' Athletics

Ten members of the Women's G. W. Club were presented with gold basketballs by Martha McGrew, 1922-23 coach and retiring president of the club, at a meeting held last Friday evening in Corcoran Hall. A constitution was presented to the club for adoption, and Daisy Robison and Mary Bixler were elected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, for the coming year.

Imogene Stockett, who coached the team last year, gave an inspiring talk to the members of the club, encouraging them to continue the splendid record of past seasons. Miss McGrew, after a short talk, presented gold basketballs to 10 members who played on the team last year.

The members receiving basketballs are Beatrice Woodford, Mary Bixler, Alice Haines, Alice Ewers, Winifred Faunce, Daisy Robison, Grace Young, Katherine Shoemaker, Marguerite Daly and Miss Stockett.

"PEP" RALLIES PLANNED BEFORE BALTIMORE GAME

Meetings In Afternoon And Evening For Students Going To Saturday Game

Two big "Pep" rallies is the program planned for Friday by cheer leaders and promoters of football supporters. Immediately following the 11:15 classes a big rally will be held in the assembly room of Corcoran Hall at 12:15. "Pep" Balter and speakers representing both the faculty and team will conduct a short meeting to practice cheers and a few songs, and Friday evening at 7 o'clock, as soon as classes are dismissed, a similar rally will be held in the assembly room for evening students.

The object of these meetings is to develop a large cheering section which will attend the Johns Hopkins game at Baltimore next Saturday en masse and show the Marylanders that George Washington has a real university.

A new George Washington football song written by Eugene Sweeney was introduced last Friday evening and practiced for the first time at the "Pep" rally held just preceding the St. Joseph's game in Corcoran Hall.

Another feature of last week's rally was the series of enthusiastic speeches by Dr. Daniel Borden, chairman of the Athletic Council; Professor Doyle, Coach Crum, Captain Guy Hottel, and Loehler, giant George Washington fullback. After the speeches, "Pep" Balter took charge of the assembly and proceeded to develop a cheering squad which did noble service at the game last Saturday.

MUNROE ADDRESSES CHEMISTS

Dr. Charles Edward Munroe, Dean Emeritus of the School of Graduate Studies, addressed the last meeting of the Chemical Society, Wednesday night, October 22, giving interesting memoirs of his past activities and research. Dr. Munroe is the foremost American authority on explosives, and has but recently received the signal honor of election to an honorary fellowship in the American Institute of Chemists.

G. W. CHEERING SQUAD
TO SEE HOPKINS GAMEVictorious Hatchette Eleven To Meet
Blue Jays Saturday At Homewood Stadium

What promises to be the hardest game of the season to date will be played Saturday at Homewood Stadium, Baltimore, against the Johns Hopkins Blue Jays. The Buff and Blue will meet an eleven that has an imposing record for past achievement; a team with more weight and speed than any contender the Hatchettes have met thus far this year.

The Black and Blue Jays started their season by administering a sound beating to Randolph-Macon College, piling up a greater score against the Methodists than did the powerful University of Virginia team. October 14th the Jays defeated Mt. St. Mary, 21-0, holding the sturdy Mountaineers to but four first downs. Suffering a reverse at the hands of the powerful Pitt Panthers on the 21st, they nevertheless put up a hard driving game. Last Saturday they piled up 87 points while holding Loyola scoreless.

Coach Sutherland has a well balanced organization, a fast, shifty back field behind a powerful line, and will probably cause Coach Crum a good deal of worry before the game is over. In Turnbull, Hopkins has a powerful halfback who has developed into a punter of note. The Jays have been perfecting a forward passing system that should give the Hatchettes plenty of trouble.

G. W. has had a very successful football season thus far, piling up 98 points to their opponents' 7. Coach Crum has been pointing his men for this game, and kept several of his stars out of the St. Joseph contest that they might be in perfect condition by Saturday.

A large delegation of G. W. rooters expect to make the trip to Baltimore, some planning to go by bus, and some via the W. B. & A. E. Railroad. The latter way will be very convenient for those that decide to go at the last minute. Special rates are being given students, both by the bus companies and the electric railroad. The game will start at 2:30, and, as the run to Baltimore takes about one and one-half hours, the rooters plan to leave Washington just as soon as classes are over. Trains leave every half hour from the W. B. & A. station on Twelfth street and New York avenue. "Pep" Balter expects to be on hand to lead the cheering.

Murphy punted to Malone, who ran the ball back to G. W.'s 36-yard line. A 5-yard penalty for an offside play resulted when an end run was attempted.

Zollar attempted to punt, but a red-jerseyed foe man partially blocked the ball, and G. W. recovered the pigskin in midfield. Malone made 6 yards over left guard. It was first down for G. W. when Wagner went off tackle for 8 yards. A pass failed, and G. W. was again penalized for being offside. Laux made 2 yards.

At this point Lamar was rushed in to handle the team. Wagner again made it first down. Lamar then stepped back and threw a long pass to Bowen, who was standing over the goal line, scoring the first touchdown. Lamar drop-kicked for the extra point. Oakes had his ankle injured on the last play and F. McCauley was substituted for him.

After an exchange of punts it was St. Joe's ball on their 20-yard line. Goldman broke through and tackled for a loss of 6 yards. St. Joe fumbled on the next play and Goldman recovered for G. W. on the 15-yard line. Wagner made 5 yards at right tackle, then 3 yards through right guard. Long took the ball to St. Joe's 1-foot line, and on the next play went over for a touchdown. Lamar failed to kick goal.

Toward the end of the second quarter Lamar recovered a St. Joe fumble, giving the ball to G. W. on their opponent's 45-yard line. An exchange of punts found the ball in the possession of the Hatchettes in midfield. Lamar again sprung one of his sudden passes, and Bowen raced all the way to the 3-yard line before he was tackled. He hit the ground hard and the ball rolled over the goal line, but Zollar was on hand and fell on it for a touchdown. Murphy, Crimson quarterback, was injured on the play and left the game, Martinez taking his place. Lamar drop-kicked for goal.

St. Joe elected to receive, and then sprung a surprise attack, forward-passing and rushing the ball to G. W.'s 5-yard line. With their goal in danger, Kris was sent in to bolster up the line. Gowen fumbled the ball on the next play, and Wagner, recovering for G. W., ran without interference through the whole Red team for 30 yards. A long pass, Lamar to McNeil, who had substituted for Zollar, netted 30 yards. A second pass was intercepted by St. Joe as the half ended.

St. Joe came back full of fight after the rest period, and succeeded in keeping a G. W. team composed mostly of substitutes at bay during the third period. Both sides tried several passes, and G. W. intercepted two. A long pass, Laux to G. McLain, netted 30 yards as the quarter ended with the ball on the St. Joe 16-yard line.

Laux opened the last period with a 7-yard plunge through the line, and Lamar took the leather over from the 9-yard line. He also kicked goal.

St. Joe received on their 20-yard line, and on an attempted end run from kick formation Banville broke through and threw the runner for a 10-yard loss. The Pennsylvanians kicked to Bo Lamar, who was downed on the 22-yard line. Lamar made three successive gains, and Malone went over for the score. Lamar drop-kicked.

Laux kicked off to St. Joe on the 5-yard line, who returned by punting to the 26 marker. A pass, Lamar to Gorman, substitute halfback, a few more line bucks, and the scorer added another six to his total. A drop-kick made the score 41 to 0.

The game ended not long after this with the ball well in the out-of-town team's territory, and G. W. on their way to another score.

This magnificent showing has given the Hatchettes increased confidence, and they look forward to the battle with Hopkins on next Saturday with expectations of another victory.

Beacons of the sky

Between Cleveland and Rock Springs, Wyo., along the night route of the air mail service, tall beacons have been placed every twenty-five miles.

Revolving on great steel towers, General Electric searchlights, totaling 1,992,000,000 candle-power, blaze a path of light for the airplane pilot.

What the lighthouse is to the ocean navigator, these beacons are to the conquerors of the air.

This achievement has been made possible by engineers of the Illuminating Engineering Laboratories of the General Electric Company, working with officials of the Post Office Department. A startling achievement now will be a commonplace of life in the new America which you will inherit.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT WINS AT DEBATE MEETING

Debating Society To Solicit Students Indicating Interest In University Debating

In line with its policy of discussing live topics of unusual interest, the Columbian Debating Society last night took up the child labor question. The subject, "Resolved, That the several states should ratify the proposed twentieth amendment to the United States Constitution—the so-called 'Child Labor Amendment,'" was upheld by R. L. Hollowell and Julius Schiendler, who won a unanimous decision over Lewis Wallace and Irvin McClellan. First and second honors were not awarded.

Approximately fifty persons were present. Women were very much in the minority. Therefore it was decided that unusual efforts should be made to interest the fair sex in forensics. It was also brought to the attention of those present that a large number of students signified their interest in debating at the time of registration, so an appropriation was made to cover the cost of mailing such persons a letter inviting them to join the Columbian Debating Society.

The subject and speakers for next Friday's debate will be announced on the bulletin boards in all University buildings.

PLAYERS TO PRESENT THEIR FIRST PLAY

"Neighbors," popular one-act play by Zona Gale, is being rehearsed nightly under the direction of Robert Strehl Emerson, dramatic interpreter and impersonator, by a cast selected from the G. W. Players. This play, together with a short curtain raiser, "Wed," with Elsie Talbert as The Girl and Clay Powell as Bill, will be ready for presentation at the next regular meeting of the players Wednesday evening, November 5.

The Players are following a plan of preparing one-act plays to present at their regular meetings. In addition to the plays now being rehearsed, the club is planning a short play to be presented at the County Fair.

The following cast has been selected to present "Neighbors":

Inez.....Marie Dindder.
Mis' Abel.....Margaret Maize.
Grandma.....Marion Campbell.
Mis' Trot.....Patty Jameson.
Mis' Moran.....Elizabeth Hopkins.
Peter.....Murray Flack.
Ezra.....Vincent Gould.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED BY SENIOR ENGINEERS

At a meeting of practically the entire Senior Class of the Engineering College last Monday night L. Meade Hammond was elected President of the class for the coming year. Hammond was also president of the Junior Class last year. Catherine Hough, in the Department of Architecture of the Engineering College, was elected Vice-President. Ernest H. Klein, manager of the Engineers' baseball team last year and varsity manager of baseball this year, was elected secretary, while J. Homer Winkler, retiring president of the Engineering Society, was elected Treasurer of the class. J. O. Houghton was selected as the favorite to fill the office of Sergeant-at-arms.

Reardon To Succeed Darner As Hatchet Business Manager

F. William Darner, business manager of the University Hatchet, left last Monday to accept a position as secretary to the Minister of the American Legation at Managua, Nicaragua.

Darner, who came to George Washington University last fall after one year at Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa, was a member of the Sophomore class. In the one year he was at George Washington his services on the business staff were of such a character that the Student Council last spring elected him business manager for the 1924-25 Hatchet.

Upon accepting a position with the State Department, Darner submitted his resignation as business manager to the Faculty Committee on Student Activities. He was given a vote of thanks by that committee for his efficient work on the first few issues of the Hatchet, and J. Lenard Reardon, assistant business manager, was appointed as acting business manager by the committee.

Reardon, who assumes the duties and responsibilities connected with the position vacated by Darner, has spent two years in George Washington, coming here from Champagne, Illinois. He has spent two years on the Hatchet staff, working in both the circulation and advertising departments. The Faculty Committee feel that the work of business manager has been placed in capable hands.

Both Darner and Reardon are members of the local chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity.

TEA ROOMS REDECORATED BEING USED FOR STUDY

Second Floor Of Building No. 2 Made Attractive Study For Girls

The group of rooms on the second floor of Building No. 2, which have been the scene of the bi-weekly teas given by Dean Rose for the past two years, have been redecorated and arranged for the use of all girls in the University. Besides the two front rooms, which are essentially as they were last year, the two back rooms have been converted into delightful places for study and dressing.

The first of these is now to be used as a writing room and has been fitted out with black lacquered tables and chairs. The back room is a dressing room tastefully decorated in white.

These rooms have long taken the place of sorority rooms for the non-sorority girls who have not the advantage of a place at school which belongs to them.

Aside from their use as rooms for the non-sorority girls, Miss Rose will use the new rooms to continue her teas, which are held on the first and third Wednesdays of every month from 4 to 6 o'clock. All women in the University are invited to attend these teas and broaden their acquaintance among their fellow students.

FREE LANCE SPEAKER UPHOLDS RADICALISM

Former Assistant Secretary Of Labor And Mrs. Minnie Ronning Speak To Club

"God bless the man who calls me a radical. I'd rather be called a radical than a superficial," was the answer of Louis Post, former Assistant Secretary of Labor during the Wilson administration, to the charge often made that persons who support La Follette are radicals, in a speech made before the Free Lance Club, George Washington University, Thursday night.

"Radical is an epithet formed by the viciously thoughtful. An epithet is the argument of a man who has no argument," said Mr. Post.

The speaker drew a parallel between the rise of the Republican Party in 1856 with the rise of the La Follette party of today. "I have no question as to the ultimate result of this movement," he said. "I do not know what the immediate result will be. The Republican Party broke the old parties in 1860. My suggestion is that we are going through the same experience."

Mr. Post and Mrs. Minnie Ronning, wife of the secretary of Senator Shipstead, who has been campaigning for La Follette in Minnesota, also told of the La Follette campaign and spoke on the platform of the new party, laying particular stress on the proposed limitation of the power of the Supreme Court by constitutional amendment.

An open discussion was held following the speeches, with criticisms and questions directed mainly toward the speech of the former Assistant Secretary of Labor.

ENGINEERS PLAN TRIP TO SEE EXPERIMENTS

An invitation to accompany the Washington Society of Engineers, local chapter of the Society of Mechanical Engineers, to Annapolis next Saturday to witness engineering experiments has been extended to the student branch recently established in George Washington. Members of the two societies will also attend the Navy-Penn State game at the Naval Academy Saturday afternoon.

Because of the small number of students present at the meeting called last Tuesday, election of officers for the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was postponed until this evening. The society will meet at 7 o'clock this evening in Room 23, Building No. 4, and elect officers for the coming season.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE FOR STUDENT NURSES

Light hearts and gay colors will mark the departure of the University Hospital nurses from the conventional stiff white when they will be hosts to the student nurses at a Halloween dance, November 1, at the Franklin Square Hotel. Miss B. B. Thompson, superintendent of nurses, and her assistants are rapidly completing plans for the success of the event.

Among the invited guests are President and Mrs. William Mather Lewis, Major J. D. Byers, Dr. William C. Borden, Dean of the Medical School, and the Medical School faculty. A special invitation is also extended to all the medical students, for without them the dance would be quite incomplete.

Music will be furnished by Boernstein's Orchestra.
